THE FERGUSON MURDER TRIAL.

The Prosecution Rests, and the Defense Begins.

Yesterday morning the audience in the Courtroom was not as large as usual, though there were still a good many in the seats. This was owing, perhaps, to the tediousness of the trial on the day before. As the day wore on, however, the room became crowded again, so that the Sheriff was sometimes obliged to keep back those who, being unable to obtain seats, crowded up to the railing. The examination of witnesses for the prosecution was continued.

John A. McManus sworn—On the afternoon of the 13th of July I went to the County Hospital in the company of Mr. Sweeney and Frank Herford, Jr., Frank told me near there a knife, and at the same time said, "I guess this is the knife you are looking for." The knife was bloody. I think this [the knife on the table] is the knife.

Frank Herford, Jr., sworn—I am 12 years of age—going on 13. I understand the nature of an oath and its obligations. One afternoon in July, when the defendant had been brought to jail, I went to the County Hospital in company with John A. McManus, and perhaps others. I saw a knife on the ground, about as far from the hospital as that window [about 25 feet distant] is from me. The knife appeared as if a finger had been rubbed across it. E. D. Williams picked it up. I think I saw him put it into a case, and afterward I saw it in the jailer's room.

CROSS-EXAMINED.

Q.—Who spoke or said anything to induce you to go to the hospital to search for a knife? A.—I had just come down from dinner and Mr. Sweeney or Mr. McManus said something about the murder—[Counsel—Call it difficulty.] difficulty and I thought I'd go over there and see.

Q.—Did they say anything about a knife? A.—Not that I remember of.

Q.—How happened you to say "I guess this is the knife you're looking for"? A.—I didn't say "This is the knife you're looking for." I said "I guess this is the knife."

Marion Smith sworn—I live on the opposite side of the street from the Hospital and to the east of it, and about 150 feet distant from it; I heard of a difficulty going on in the Hospital; I saw defendant walk to one end of the Hospital; he walked to the east; he stood right in the street—just a moment or two; I saw him make a motion with his hand as if to throw something; he threw it on the north side of the street; I went there directly to search for the knife, and gave information as to where I thought it could be found.

CROSS-EXAMINED.

Q.—Did you see the difficulty between the defendant and the deceased? [The State objected on the ground that as in the direct examination of the witness nothing had been elicited with regard to his having seen the difficulty, any question with regard to his seeing the difficulty was not a proper one in cross-examination. The objection was overruled and the question repeated.] A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you see the commencement of the difficulty? A.—I did not.

Counsel—Describe to this jury the particulars of the difficulty that you did see and that you have spoken of in direct examination. [The State made the same objection as the last, and again the court overruled.]

Witness—I saw Ash have Ferguson in the west corner of the hall beating him—striking at him right from the shoulder.

Counsel—State whether Ash hit the defendant or not. Witness—He appeared to have perfect control of Ferguson, that is, to have him cornered up there. I made the remark that Ash was getting the best of the fight.

Q.—After you saw Scotty return from the hall of the Hospital what did he (Scotty) do? [The State objected for a similar reason to that of the last objection. Objection overruled.] A.—Drew a derringer on Ferguson and told him to go to jail—go along.

RE-DIRECT EXAMINATION.

Q.—How far is your house from the door of the hall. A.—About 150 feet.

Q.—Are there any trees, posts, or awnings about the front of the Hospital hall door? A.—There are awning posts; there is also a covered portico, or awning.

Q.—Is not your house, or the place at which you were standing at the time, a good deal higher than the hall door? A.—It is.

Q.—Were you standing in the door of your house? A.—I was.

Q.—Isn't the door of your house several feet higher than the ground at that point? A.—It is.

Q.—Considering the awning post, the roof to the portico of the Hospital, the height of a man standing in your door and the elevation of your door, could a person in that position have an uninterrupted view of the whole door leading into the Hospital hall so as to obtain a full view of what was going on between two persons in the west corner of that hall? [The defense objected on the ground that the witness having been brought in by the State, the State had no right to attempt to discredit him. Objection overruled.] A.—The view was interrupted the width of an awning post, about four inches.

Q.—Can you see distinctly, with the exception of this post from your door, into the west corner of the Hospital hall? A.—I can see a man of Ferguson's size distinctly.

Q.—Were these men in your sight during the whole difficulty, or did they appear and disappear? A.—They appeared and disappeared.

Q.—Then you did not see the whole of the fight, did you? A.—I don't know whether I did or not.

John Farley being sworn, testified that he had known where the case of instruments was kept in the hospital, while he had been a patient there; had seen Ferguson about the case during the day of the killing; he described the searching of Ferguson by Williams; he held up his right hand as Ferguson had done while being searched; he held the palm out, with the fingers up, and, as if involuntarily, Ferguson held his right hand up at the same moment. Ferguson's hand and wrist were bent forward, with the fingers and thumb together at the ends. He also testified to Ash having asked for his pay in order that he might be in such a position that he could lick three or four Irish sons of b—s, and to the "scolding," as he termed it, between Ash and Ferguson.

The testimony of Farley had been taken the State rested.

TESTIMONY FOR THE DEFENSE.

Mr. Sawyer made a speech prefatory to the testimony for the defense.

Patrick O'Toole sworn—Q.—Are you a Roman Catholic? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you know Ash in his lifetime? A.—I never did.

Q.—Do you know Scotty? [Williams, the Hospital Steward.] A.—Yes, sir, I know him.

Q.—Did you ever hear him speak of this defendant? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What did he say about defendant at the County Hospital, county of Lincoln, State of Nevada, in your presence? [The State objected on the ground that it was irrelevant, immaterial and not licensing defendant to kill the deceased. The counsel then proceeded to argue the point, and after while the witness said: "I might save you some trouble, gentlemen, if you would let me speak, because that conversation never occurred in the County Hospital."]

The prosecution then asked a number of questions as to the opinion which witness Williams had of the defendant, as to the language which said witness had used concerning defendant, and as to the internal religious-political feuds of Ireland. The State objected to these questions as irrelevant, immaterial, and not affecting the justification of taking a man's life, and their objections were sustained.

At 2 p. m. the court adjourned till 9 o'clock this morning.

"THE AIR SMELLS OF BLOOD."—Such was the ejaculation of a timid friend night before last. It is said that several days ago a couple of individuals, who were in drink at the time, came to the Sheriff's office and demanded that G. W. McKinney now under indictment for murder, be kept in the jail instead of being allowed to walk around the Court House and stay in the jailer's room. The Sheriff informed them that he himself intended to take care of the prisoner, and that he did not need any assistance from them. Moreover the prisoner is in very poor health, and a physician advised that he should be placed so as to have more and purer air. The counsel for the prosecution were willing that this advice should be followed, as they did not care to prosecute a dead man. McKinney has accordingly been kept in and around the jailer's room, being, however, under the constant guard of an officer. Night before last there was muttering talk on the streets among a certain class, and rumors of mobbing the jail were heard. Preparations were accordingly made at the jail to give callers a warm reception. Nobody came, however, and it is to be hoped that nobody will come, for just at this time when a new day—the day of justice—is beginning feebly to dawn upon us, is a poor time to begin lynching.

THE WORK OF CHERRY.—We yesterday had an interview with the wife of D. W. Cherry. It will be remembered that Cherry is now a prisoner in the County Jail, having killed a man in this place last Tuesday night. In view of the tragic occurrence in which he took so conspicuous a part, some little public interest is manifested in his affairs. Cherry has a wife (a colored woman) who is quite intelligent and about middle aged. The house looked neat and tidy, and Mrs. C. was very affable and agreeable. She seemed not to desire to conceal anything in regard to her husband's or her own antecedents. Cherry is a native of North Carolina, and some years ago found his way into the Northern States, having lived in Rhode Island. He went to California in 1890; has lived at Virginia, White Pine and other places in Nevada. He married his present wife ten years ago, but no offspring has resulted from their union. Mrs. C. is a native of Rhode Island. She says her husband deeply regrets the shooting of the old man. We may as well say in this connection that no preliminary examination has been had as yet, as the defendant has not seen fit to demand it.

ROBBING A HOSPITAL.—On Tuesday morning an individual named Charles Roddo, known in Nevada far and wide by his deeds of prowess, was arrested and lodged in jail on a charge of robbing the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. It seems that he took crockery, bedclothes, and, in short, everything that could be found. His professional name is "Chicken Thief Charley." His latest exploit before this last was the appropriation of a pair of pants. On account of this little indiscretion he remained secluded from the world for four months, and had only appeared in public again on the 23d of this month. Society has to regret that after it had only three days of his beneficial influence, the missions of the law, on the 26th, again took him to a vile dungeon, there to pine away and mourn over the blind errors of those who cannot appreciate genius.

DIED IN THE COUNTY HOSPITAL.—Yesterday morning, at 2 o'clock, William Williams, a native of Wales, aged fifty years, died in the County Hospital. He had been in this State two or three years, having last come from California. He was buried yesterday. Drs. Bergstein and Philson, assisted by E. S. Williams, Hospital Steward, made a post-mortem examination. The cause of death was Bright's disease of the kidneys. All the symptoms of the disease were found to be very strongly marked. The valves of the heart especially were very much affected, being almost completely ossified.

THE SIDEWALK JEWELER from Virginia City, who arrived here a few days ago, is, judging from appearances and from the crowd surrounding him, doing an immense business. It is reported that he will have a new arrival of goods here to-morrow—just in time for Sunday. He sells watches and jewelry at 50 cents a throw, and he sells at private sale cheaper than the cheapest.

CLEANINGS FROM EXCHANGES.

The Peruvian Government has ordered the National Guards to remain under arms, in anticipation of disturbance between the laborers and the Chinese. A large number of Chinamen have been imported to Lima and the result there, as everywhere, has been an antagonistic feeling aroused among the native laborers of the country. The only tangible property that the poor man has in any country is his claim to labor. Work is to him and his family bread. To import servile labor and deprive him of it, is to steal from him his only means of support. He must starve or resist. It is the logical result of Chinese immigration to produce riot and bloodshed. If riots occur those who encourage this immigration are alone responsible.

For the crime of murder in the second degree, committed in El Dorado county, Cal., Hiram Palmer has been sentenced to 25 years in the State Prison. Palmer is a rough but honest-looking man, 37 years of age. Last New Year's Day he killed an Indian named Sam at Grizzly Flat. His version of the affair is as follows: He was engaged that day tending a bar in a sal
